On Friday, November 13, 2009 from 11:30 AM – 1:00 PM, she is presenting a free Lunch and Learn workshop at Northwoods Bank that will help you in making a decision to no longer settle for things as they are...to jump into a completely new orbit and begin living your dreams. What do you really want to be? What do you really want to do? What do you really want to have? A century ago, author, James Allen accurately saw something many people seem to miss. The results you and I see in our outside world are, in truth, a reflection of what we have been thinking. What we think about, we truly bring about. The information in this presentation is based on the premise that you have rich resources lying dormant within you waiting to be developed. The development of those resources will be reflected in the results you achieve in every area of your life. Happiness, health and wealth are a natural state in which to live. Are you living to your full potential? If you want more, come to this free workshop and learn how your mind works and how you can think your way to a better life. The workshop is free, bring your lunch.
